30 Apr 1970

Park City Record 11 Mar 1971

HEBER VALLEY CARE CENTER

C. Jess Peck - Owner

When residents of the area wish to find the best care for family members who desire to spend their elder years with others of their own generation, a telephone call to 654-0521 will obtain all information about a haven of rest in a home-like atmosphere.

Those who have reached the golden age of retirement are received at the home in a spirit of comradeship and are given all the close personal attention they have received in the hearts of the junior members of the family.

A director of nursing supervises the work of the trained and competent members of the staff of the home and prescriptions are carefully administered in full compliance with the doctor's orders when the family physician is consulted in case of illness.

Diets are carefully controlled and are prepared by thoroughly experienced cooks who take the time to carefully follow every culinary order. The sanitary kitchens are regularly inspected in the state licensed home.

Telephones are conveniently close by for ease of contact with the family and visits by friends and relatives are invited. A phone call to the home will pave the way for a personal visit.

For their care of the retired, the elderly and the convalescent, this 1971 BUSINESS OUTLOOK suggests to all readers that they discover the ease of mind which can be enjoyed when the loved elders use the services located at Heber Valley Care Center, 160 W. 5N in Heber City.